This study examines the various factions within Russia as well as Russia's historical and geopolitical position before and after the war, and the tactics and strategy of its revolutionaries. Their strategies included seizure of industrial centers and key military bases, expropriation of land, and boycott of the war, and this book assesses the impact of these policies on the Russian economy, society, and, ultimately, on the outcome of the war. The book concentrates on the Russian revolutionaries' interactions with other groups and foreign powers as well as the history of these various groups. In addition to examining the personalities of various revolutionary leaders and the political and economic systems they worked within, the book also examines the myriad diverse forces that influenced the outcome of the revolution. In addition, this study considers how the country was reconstructed after the revolution and how the politics and events of the early 1920s influenced the outcome of the Great Purge and World War II. This study highlights the pivotal role that the Bolsheviks played in the events of 1917-1921 and analyzes their significance within contemporary Russia. It also evaluates the "grand strategy" of the Bolsheviks and its impact on Russia and the world. Finally, it compares the Bolsheviks' strategy with Stalin's later policies of establishing a totalitarian state in the name of communism as well as analyzing the competing strategies pursued by various factions of the revolution. e_observations_books_and_magazines_.
